The Bangkok Times says .- His Majesty the King, we learn on good authority, will shortly issue an edict, making it a criminal offence to obtain evidence from accused and other persons by flogging and other means. Of course these methods have been abolished in Bangkok for some time, but His Majesty's personal observations while visiting the Special Commissioner's Court at Ayuthia led him to believe it likely that such abuses may still obthin in the provinces and he was determined to prohibit them altogother. It will be remembered that one of the Aynthia judges sent to prison by the Commissioners had flogged a prisoner so severely that the latter died.
